Show and Tell

Pre-Meeting

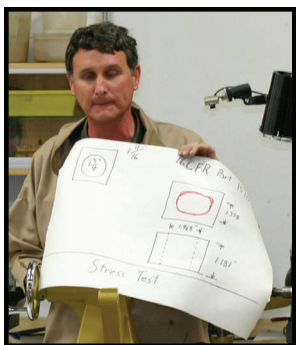

Dan Schmoker led a small group who wanted more practice identifying trees. The group met at McDonnell Park and continued practicing with their dichotomous keys.

Demonstration

Chris demonstrated how he has turned baby rattles for his grandchildren. He discussed what he liked about different types of rattles. He discussed the problems he had following another turners plans when they have an error in it. He showed how he uses a story stick to lay out the design. For a very important safety tip, he discussed the choking hazard toys can become and the federal guidelines that help to prevent that situation.
